SOCIETY SEES MYOPIA WIN IN SADDLE CLASS AT TUXEDO SHOW

Dinner and Dance Follow the First Day of Annual Horse Show.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
TUXEDO PARK, N. Y., June 2.—Light rain all day did not keep society away from the opening of the Horse Show, and many prominent exhibitors were included in the big gathering.

The competition was sharp, and all the classes were well contested. Miss Ivy D. Maddison's horse Myopia, won in the women's saddle horse class over Miss Clara S. Peck's Winona, a consistent winner in previous shows. Another popular winner was Miss Clara S. Peck's pony Midnight Frolic, ridden by David Wagstaff, Jr.; Miss Peck presented to Master Wagstaff the silver cup. The Judges were Mr. R. Lawrence Smith, Col. R. H. Williams and Mr. Alfred B. MacIver.

This year's show is being conducted by a committee headed by Mrs. David Wagstaff as president, and Major Pierre Lorillard, Jr., as secretary and treasurer. The Stewards include Mrs. Preston Davis, who scored a popular victory in the saddle horse road hack class with her horse Vice-Burn; Mr. Theodore Prellinghuysen, Mr. E. Victor Loew, Mr. John E. Cowdin, Mr. E. Roland N. Harriman, Mrs. Amory S. Carhart, Miss Annette Tilford and Mrs. C. V. Patterson.

Mrs. Tilford Gives Dinner.
To-night Mrs. Henry M. Tilford gave a dinner at her home for her daughter, Miss Annette Tilford. Following the party there was a large dance given by Mrs. Amory S. Carhart in the ball room at her home.

Among those who attended Mrs. Tilford's dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Amory S. Carhart, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley G. Carhart, Mr. and Mrs. L. Grant B. Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. Edson Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Pell, Mr. and Mrs. R. Mauretania in After Swift Run From Cherbourg

Passengers, in Optimistic Mood About Europe, Praise Relief Administration.

The Cunarder Mauretania, record queen of the Atlantic, got off yesterday after a swift and cheerful run of five days eleven hours and thirty-one minutes from Cherbourg with nearly all her 219 saloon passengers in optimistic mood about Europe.

Edwin P. Shattuck, lawyer of this city and a director of the American Relief Administration, said that the distress of European peoples as a result of wars would be greatly alleviated in the future by the operation of the organizations built up by the American Relief Administration and now being taken over by the Governments of Europe, except Russia, where it will be necessary for the Relief Administration to continue the work. He said what has been accomplished by the Relief Administration had made history in Europe and "will remain for generations a monument of American spirit, enterprise and ideals."

Dr. J. G. Lipman, dean of the College of Agriculture of Rutgers, who was official delegate of the United States to the agricultural conferences at Prague and Rome, said that the net result of the year's production in crops in countries of central Europe would be much below normal because of splitting up of farms and their operation by the peasant owners. The peasant on his small holdings was nothing like as efficient as the specialists who formerly farmed for the big land holders.

Abraham Ley, maker of dresses, said he found Paris turning out flapper costumes lower than heretofore at the neck and not much more than ankle high at the other end. They were beginning to turn out a sort of Joan of Arc costume for the fall made of metal cloth in gold, silver and copper colors chiefly. The cloth is not proof against the bullets of bandits, being thin and ornamental.

Dr. J. Phillips of 52 West Fifty-second street and his wife, visited Monte Carlo and he made an effort to show her that he knew more about roulette than any living American. He lost 10,000 francs and Mrs. Phillips persuaded him to let her take a chance at the wheel. She did, won back the 10,000, pocketing it, and 1,000 more, which she presented to the doctor, who declared that thereafter she should superintend the family investments in roulette and other games.

Henry Mason Day, who sailed five months ago with a party of engineers to see about acquiring oil concessions for his company in south Russia, said the proposition made to his company was very attractive, and that he would sail later by the Aquitania and might possibly "conclude a deal involving Russian oil."

John Gamble, general freight manager in America for the Cunard Line, said he found the German ship owners cutting rates ruthlessly to maintain their position. They were sending to South America and India great cargoes of motor trucks and were shipping great quantities of steel manufacturing from junk.

Other arrivals were S. W. Fairchild, president of the Union League Club; Mrs. Horace Dodge, Miss Gloria Swanwick, Mrs. Preston Davies, Viceburg, first; Miss Beckie Lanier's Dixie, second; Miss Beckie Lanier's Dixie, third; Miss Beckie Lanier's Dixie, fourth.

The final qualifying round for the actors' golf tournament for the Charles Dillingham trophy will be played over the course of the Salisbury links, near Westbury, L. I., today, and about seventy-five actors are expected to qualify, unless most of them get lost around the nineteenth hole.

Miss Lisa Murray has protested to Carl Laemmle, head of Universal, against the co-starring with her of Rodolph Valentino in "The Delicious Little Devil," to be revived at the Central next week, inasmuch as Valentino wasn't featured when the picture was made in 1919. Old how public taste changes!

Spence and Miss Emily Sterling.

"RADIUM" GOWNS ON STAGE.

Effective Innovation Seen in "Good Morning, Dearie."

What was said to be the first public demonstration of "radium" gowns, took place at the Globe Theater last night when a radium number staged by Edward Royce was added to "Good Morning, Dearie," as part of the 50th performance. After Oscar Shaw had sung the first verse of the "Ka-lu-a" number the lights were switched off and the gowns, which had appeared to the audience as being of white satin, were revealed as red, green and yellow.

The chemical discoveries which made possible the effects were found in an experimental stage in Paris by Mr. Royce during his last visit. He arranged that a new York theatrical costume, then in Paris, should make up gowns there upon the perfection of the new discovery. The chemical substance used may be applied not only to pearls and beads, but also to fabrics, and at the Globe, white silk, silver cloth and fine hand woven lace are thus treated. In addition, by variations of the formula, three delicate but pronounced colors, red, green and yellow were produced.

COHAN PRIOR ABBOT AGAIN.

Manager Re-elected at Annual Meeting of the Club.

George M. Cohan was re-elected Abbot and William Collier Dean of the Friars Club at the annual election held last night. The new members elected for the board of governors were Paul Henkel, Gus Hill, Leo L. Redding and Harry Nelson. Mr. Cohan on his return to the Friars a year ago after his long absence was welcomed by being restored as Abbot, Channing Pollock retiring in his favor.

W. A. BRADY BUYS PLAYS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD. Copyright, 1922, by THE NEW YORK HERALD. New York Herald Bureau.

William A. Brady, after viewing a number of stage productions in Europe, has bought two plays now running in Berlin. One of them is "Die Herren Von und Zu," a light musical comedy which he believes particularly adaptable to the American theater. He will produce it in New York during the coming season.

MISS VIRGINIA DIXON TO WED.

Frank W. Harriman, formerly proprietor of the Holland House, yesterday announced the engagement of his daughter, Miss Virginia, who is known on the stage as a light musical comedy which he believes particularly adaptable to the American theater. He will produce it in New York during the coming season.

Notes of the Stage

Miss Marion Bertram sails to-day on the Olympic with the script of Adolph Klausner's production, "The Charlatan," for traveling companion. Mr. Klausner received a wireless yesterday from Jane Cowd, now on the high seas headed straight for London, asking that the script of the play at the Times Square Theater be sent to keep the Continent from growing monotonous for her.

Jack McGowan, appearing in "The Rose of Stamboul" at the Century Theater, has been factually "Be Yachin" for collaboration with Anatole Gousha, while Charles Rosoff wrote the music—proving that all the old names aren't worn by the personages in a musical comedy themselves.

"Suburban Week" was ended last night at the Ambassador Theater, after 2,065 residents of northern New Jersey, Westchester and Long Island had been unloaded from trains to see "Blossom Time."

To-night marks the 500th performance of Irving Berlin's "Music Box Review," which has been seen by 306,574, according to an official census, not counting Sam H. Harris, who has equalled 300 spectators in his nightly attendance.

Allan Pollock and Edgar Kent held a huge reunion, having made their American debuts together with Mrs. Pat Campbell, when they appeared at Henry Miller's Theater last Thursday in "A Pinch Hitter," and the scene was so affecting that several stage hands stopped discussing the day's score.

The Lambs announce the opening of the public seat sale Monday morning at the Knickerbocker Theater for the public gambol on Sunday, June 11, as no auction sale will be held this year, because too many auctioneers were worn out in the past.

Miss Lisa Murray has protested to Carl Laemmle, head of Universal, against the co-starring with her of Rodolph Valentino in "The Delicious Little Devil," to be revived at the Central next week, inasmuch as Valentino wasn't featured when the picture was made in 1919. Old how public taste changes!

MRS. STRAIGHT'S STAGE SCHOLARSHIPS WON

Edmund Bowen and Paul Guilfoyle Receive Awards.

Scholarships offered by Mrs. Willard Straight for one year's full tuition at the School of the Theater connected with the Threshold Playhouse, at 571 Lexington avenue, were won yesterday by Edmund Bowen and Paul Guilfoyle. They were successful out of fifty applicants. This number was reduced to ten and the final winners yesterday in a contest that extended over two hours. Miss Elsie Ferguson, George Arliss and Frank Craven were the judges.

The ten who reached the final test were, besides the winners, H. Raymond Bolton, Daniel E. Cory, Martin Wolfson, Ned Crane, George Miller, William Flourice, Morris Green and Michael Deermid. They were required to read forty lines of drama, comedy and character bits of their own choice, the selection ranging from Shakespeare to Eugene O'Neill and Booth Tarkington.

The scholarships were awarded by Mrs. Straight because she has become interested in the work of the school, which prepares aspirants for the professional stage, giving them eight performances a week, with the bills changed every three weeks. The winners will be trained in acting, voice culture, dancing, pantomime and fencing.

COLLEGE PLAYERS ORGANIZE.

The Washington Square College Players of New York University have organized for next year with an executive committee composed of Edward Fitzhugh, Ruth Horning, Sophie Edelstein, Kath Gifford and Richard Lambert. Albert Kretzman was chosen drama manager, Morris Lapidus, scene designer; Cecilya Rother, costume designer; Milton McCleghnan, properties; Ramon Larralde, assistant stage manager, and Harold Shapiro, publicity.

SHERIDAN'S HORSE TO LEAVE.

Winchester Shows at Governors Island Last Time.

Winchester, the horse ridden by Gen. Sheridan through fifty battles in the Civil War, will be placed on view at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at Governor's Island for the last time and then will be shipped to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington. The ceremonies will be in charge of Chaplain Edmund Banks Smith and will be attended by veterans of all the American wars.

The horse was presented to Gen. Sheridan by officers of the Second Michigan Cavalry at Rienz, Miss., in 1862. He was of Black Hawk blood and was reported to have been always cool and steady under fire. He died in 1878, was mounted at Rochester and brought to Governors Island soon afterward.

Winchester became famous by his twenty mile run at the Battle of Cedar Creek October 19, 1864.

MRS. CHAPLIN NOT ENGAGED.
